Introduction

This document details the various aspects and guidelines of SWRS logo and typography. These guidelines establish the branding of the logo, how it may be modified and applied for the sake of consistency across media, assets and presentation to the general public.

A brand is more than just a name, icon or a collection of different services or products. It is the forefront of how people will think, feel and react to the company as a whole and in turn is what makes a company unique in both impression and presentation. As the brand is established, it creates public expectations in the present as well as in the future.
